A Guide to What's Wrong with Economics

edited by Edward Fullbrook.

Contents

Introduction: Broadband versus narrowband economics
Edward Fullbrook University of the West of England, UK

Part I Basic Problems
♦ The quarrelsome boundaries of economics
Hugh Stretton University of Adelaide, Australia
♦ Modern economics: the problem and a solution
Tony Lawson Cambridge University, UK
♦ The pitfalls of mainstream economic reasoning (and teaching)
Michael A. Bernstein University of California, San Diego, USA
♦ Neoclassical economic theory: a special and not a general case
Paul Ormerod Volterra Consulting, UK
♦ Where do economies come from? The missing story
Anne Mayhew University of Tennessess, USA
♦ Can economics start from the individual alone?
Geoffrey M. Hodgson University of Hertfordshire, UK

Part II Micro Nonsense
♦ Are you rational?
Edward Fullbrook University of the West of England, UK
♦ Five pieces of advice for students studying microeconomics
Emmanuelle Benicourt École des Hautes Études des Sience Sociales, France
♦ How mainstream economists model choice, versus how we behave, and why it matters
Peter E. Earl University of Queensland, Australia
♦ Managerial economics: economics of management or economics for managers?
Sashi Sivramkrishna Foundation to Aid Industrial Recovery, India

Part III Macro Nonsense
♦ Why do we have separate courses in “micro” and “macro” economics?
Ozgur Gun Université de Reims Champagne Ardenne, France
♦ The “natural” rate of unemployment
James G. Devine Loyola Marymount University, USA
♦ How to look at economics critically: some suggestions
Renato Di Ruzza Université de Aix-Marseille, France
Joseph Halevi University of Sydney, Australia and Université Pierre Mendès France, France
Part IV Ethical Voids and Social Pathologies
♦ Teaching economics as if ethics mattered
Charles K. Wilber  University of Notre Dame, USA
♦ Economics as ideology and the need for pluralism
Peter Söderbaum  Mälardalen University, Sweden
♦ The “efficiency” illusion
Richard Wolff  University of Massachusetts, Amherst, USA
♦ “There are none so blind . . .
Susan F. Feiner  University of Southern Maine, USA

Part V Misuse of Mathematics and Statistics
♦ Can mathematics be used successfully in economics?
Donald Gillies  King’s College London, UK
♦ Is there something to expect from game theory?
Bernard Guerrien  Université Paris I, France
♦ Improbable, Incorrect or Impossible:
The persuasive but flawed mathematics of microeconomics
Steve Keen  University of Western Sydney, Australia
♦ The significance of the economics research paper
Stephen T. Ziliak  Roosevelt University, USA

Part VI Category Mistakes Regarding Wealth and Illth
♦ Changing visions of humans’ place in the world and the need for an Ecological Economics
Robert Costanza  The University of Vermont, USA
♦ Ecological Economics: The concept of scale and its relation to allocation, distribution, and uneconomic growth
Herman E. Daly  University of Maryland, USA
♦ What’s wrong with GDP and growth? The need for alternative indicators
Jean Gadrey  Université Lille, France

Part VII Globalist Distortions
♦ What is Wrong with the “Official History of Capitalism”?
- with special reference to the debates on globalisation and economic development
Ha-Joon Chang  Cambridge University, UK
♦ Should the study of transnational companies be part of the economics syllabus?
Grazia Ietto-Gillies  London South Bank University, UK
♦ Would a Latin American Economics Make Sense?
Ana Maria Bianchi  University of Sao Paulo, Brazil