The ILO Library and the Gender Bureau present a new resource guide on gender equality in the world of work. This guide provides gender equality information via links to both ILO and other publications, statistics, ILO Conventions and Recommendations, as well as other resources around the world.

Resource Guide - Gender equality in the world of work [7 March 2007]

Since its founding in 1919, the ILO has been committed to promoting the rights of all women and men at work and achieving gender equality. The ILO recognises gender equality not only as a basic human right, but intrinsic to the global aim of Decent Work for All Women and Men. This vision is based on the ILO mandate on gender equality as stated in numerous Resolutions of the International Labour Conference. The ILO Policy on Gender Equality and Mainstreaming, which is made operational through the ILO Action Plan, supports a two-pronged approach of gender mainstreaming: systematically analysing and addressing in all initiatives the specific needs of both women and men, and targeted interventions to enable women and men to participate in - and benefit equally from - development efforts.

The ILO, through the Bureau for Gender Equality, widely disseminates knowledge and practical information on gender equality through publications and other resources. This resource guide provides gender equality information via links to both ILO and UN publications, statistics, ILO Conventions and Recommendations, as well as other ILO/UN resources in Regional Offices around the world.
